Structure A Monument to Four Members of Organization Who Paid Supreme Sacrifice in World War II; Flag-Raising and Plaque Unveiling Are Part of Ceremony Attracting Large Crowd.

A new epic in the construction of fraternal organizations in Bristol was celebrated yesterday with appropriate ceremonies by the Fifth Ward Sporting Club in the dedication of its new building on Wood street, near Taylor street.

Included in the day's activities were the dedication, flag-raising, cornerstone laying and unveiling of a plaque. The celebration was climaxed by a banquet in the evening with 300 in attendance.

The building was constructed as a monument to four members of the organization who paid the supreme sacrifice in World War II. It was built by the club members, their fathers, and friends, who pooled together their trade resources to complete the home within the space of a year.

The only expenses involved in the building of the home was the cost of materials.

John "Ox" DaGross was the guest speaker at the dedication exercises and at the banquet. The Fifth Ward Sporting Club presented him with a plaque for his "outstanding achievement for the betterment of sports in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania."

The new club-house is 40x70 feet, with a 40x18 stage. On the first floor is a large auditorium, capable of seating 600. There are two rest-rooms and a wardrobe in the auditorium, with two dressing rooms fully equipped on the wings of the stage. The stage is equipped with modern lighting features, suitable for any entertainment.

The floor of the auditorium is of hardwood, with the walls finished off in gold and green plaster effect. The ceiling has a cove effect with green pastel coloring and indirect lighting. The radiator covers are designed in a marbled Roman effect in brown-gold. In the center of the radiators are pictured the palms of peace.

"This One Thing" Title of Neshaminy Baccalaureate

HULMEVILLE, June 4—The baccalaureate sermon was delivered by the Rev. Edward W. Stuess, pastor, in Neshaminy Methodist Church, last evening, when members of the graduating class, Neshaminy high school, Langhorne, were in attendance in a group.

The sermon subject was "This One Thing." The clergyman emphasized clear vision, asking the questions "How far, how near, and how high can you see?" He gave emphasis to the fact that each should have vision "as wide as the world, as high as God, and as deep as the human soul."

The anthem by the adult choir was "Lamps of Evening"; and a soprano and alto duet by Mrs. Elwyn Neitzel and Miss Adeline E. Reetz was "Shadows of Evening." Miss Clara L. Hilck played the organ and electronic bells.

A portion of the offering is to be given to the National Methodist Scholarship program, which provides loans and scholarships for worthy students, who otherwise might not have opportunity to continue their education.

THE WAR

TOKYO — United Nations armed columns driving from several directions on North Korea's "iron triangle" above the central front ground out gains of more than two miles today despite heavy Red resistance. Red forces fought bitterly to slow the advance of Allied troops toward the Chorwon-Kumhwa-Pyonggang triangle and its valuable stockpile of war material. The Eighth Army's Monday evening communiqué said UN troops advanced as much as 4,000 yards or more than two and a quarter miles by midday in a multi-pronged drive west-northwest and northwest of Kwachon. Kumhwa, believed to be the key enemy supply hub, lies 18 miles northwest of Hwachon.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Secretary Acheson is slated to review the "whole history" of this country's China policy when he resumes his testimony today before the Senate committees investigating the MacArthur case. In Formosa, a Nationalist military officer said assurances had been received from Washington that United States planes would bomb China within six hours after a Communist attack on Formosa.

Under instructions not to yield, John Foster Dulles will insist in talks with British Foreign Secretary Morrison on a Japanese treaty that Peiping have no voice in the negotiations, that Nationalist China sign the pact, and that the final disposition of Formosa be left to the future. Britain has strongly favored recognizing Communist China's claims. President Conant of Harvard said that if Europe is to be defended effectively the United States, Britain and France must agree on a common global policy, including the Near East and Asia.

The Anglo-Iranian Oil Company offered to send a delegation to Teheran to discuss the oil nationalization dispute.

Most Soviet satellites will have attained sufficient military strength by the fall of 1952 to carry on offensive operations, it was reported.

France will not be able to fill her 1951 rearmament goals.

"We're sitting on an economic time-bomb" and must have tougher controls, Stabilization Administrator Johnston said. He called the drive of "special interests" to kill price-wage controls a "damn the consumer and full pockets ahead" attitude.

The latest development in the color television fight was the announcement by the Radio Corporation of America that it would turn over its electronic color tube, which dispenses with a spinning disk, to the Columbia Broadcasting System. The R. C. A. previously had refused to do this.

THE GREAT BETRAYAL

It is small wonder Secretary of State Acheson tried to persuade the Senate Committee investigating the MacArthur affair that the State Department memo of December 23, 1949, ought to be kept under lock and key, instead of being published.

His arguments that this document would give aid and comfort to Russia, however, were far from convincing. The Committee, which is top heavy with Democrats, voted 15 to 9 to reveal the contents to the American public. One cannot avoid the conclusion that what Acheson feared wasn't informing the Russians (they have so many agents in the State Department that it is inconceivable they haven't known about it since it was written) but tipping the American people off how things have been working in Uncle Sam's diplomatic circles.

For this document is of monumental historic importance. It is the most completely revealing state paper yet to come out of the sanctuaries of the striped-pants boys.

It shows clearly, beyond any means of disputing, three things: first, that pro-Communist sympathies in our State Department have been dictating policies there — that Alger Hiss wasn't the only Russian sympathizer pulling the strings; second, that "Russian aggression" is and has been secondary to the giveaway game played at our national seat of government by pro-Communists betraying the interest of the American people — Russia has grabbed virtually nothing by comparison with what she has been handed on a silver platter; and third, that the "Voice of America", and the other propaganda efforts of our State Department, are concerned far more with deceiving the

GOODWILL FIREMEN DEDICATE NEW FIRE STATION; UNVEIL PLAQUES AND UNFURL FLAG BEFORE LARGE AUDIENCE

Speakers Laud Work of Firemen for Erection of Handsome Fire Station and Work Done in Community; Members See Dreams of Many Years Come True; Structure Fills Long-Felt Need in Community.

Approximately 1500 people witnessed the unveiling of plaques and dedication of one of the finest fire stations in Bucks County, Saturday afternoon, when Goodwill Hose Company, No. 3, officially dedicated a handsome new building at Swain and Millin streets with appropriate ceremonies. Louis Harris acted as master of ceremonies.

The Rev. E. Paul Baird, of St. Mark's R. C. Church, Bristol, before giving the invocation, said: "I wish to extend my congratulations to the members of Goodwill Hose Company upon the completion of this fine new fire station and for their civic accomplishments, and wish them success with the new station and continued success in their civic accomplishments."

Mr. Harris in his introduction said: "We are gathered here for three purposes—first, to raise the colors of our country; second, to unveil two plaques; and third, to dedicate a building, which has been uppermost in the hearts of most of the members of the company for a number of years. The two plaques are—one with the names of those who served from the third ward in the First World War, and the other contains the names of those who served in the Second World War. I hope and pray that we will never have to unveil another plaque. On these plaques are the names of those who served so that this country may remain free."

In presenting the colors to the Company, Robert Orrino, Commander of the Robert W. Bracken Post, American Legion, said: "On behalf of the American Legion I take pleasure in presenting this flag of our country to the Goodwill Hose Company and long may it wave over your fire station." The flag was received by Harry Ettinger, the only living charter member of the fire company. He gave the flag to Frank Hellings and Jacob Hellings, the oldest living members, who raised the flag to the top of the staff.

The selection to the colors was played by the Bracken Post Cadet Corps, after which the unveiling of the two plaques took place. Joseph B. Keating and Mrs. A. Della, members of the Third Ward Plaque Committee, unveiled the plaques, and a member from the Terchon V. F. W. Cadet Corps and one from the Bracken Post Cadet Corps played taps. Mr. Harris said during the unveiling that the plaques had been placed in the Third Ward and the members and residents of the Third Ward thought that it would be only proper and fitting that they be placed on the Goodwill fire station, so that they may stay there for all to see and read the names of those who served.

"We have three well-known speakers to help us dedicate this building," Mr. Harris stated. "The first speaker is one of us here in Bristol know. He is the president of Bristol Borough Council, John Smoyer, III."

Mr. Smoyer, in addressing the group, said: "I am an alumnus of the Third Ward, having lived in the Third Ward for 10 or 12 years, in my youth, and it is an honor and a pleasure to have a part in the dedication of this fine new fire station that the Goodwill Fire Company has placed here and that you see before you. I know that it is the completion of the dreams and plans of the members of the company. The names of the ones who worked so hard for this building should never be forgotten. Many a heartache and lots of work was put into this building by these men."

"About 25 years ago the volunteers were legislated out of existence as fire fighters here in the borough. Instead of disbanding they have held together and rendered service to the outlying sections. Thus, instead of growing smaller they grow bigger and greater, and kept buying better equipment. During the war the

IS IRAN'S OIL IMPORTANT?

Europe needs the oil it is obtaining from Iran, of course, but there is a possibility that the picture now being painted of a Europe sunk if this supply is cut off is slightly overdrawn. The most informed discussion of the question to date comes from Ralph G. Follis, chairman of the Standard Oil Company of California and a director of the Arabian American Oil Company, who has just returned from a trip around the world.

Follis takes an optimistic view of the British-Iranian dispute over nationalization by Iran of Anglo-Iranian oil properties. Asked to make a guess on what is going to happen in Iran now, he said the only guess he could make would be based on his inability to see anything but a solution. He believes Iran cannot afford "not to work this thing out with Anglo-Iranian," because the company has the ships to move the oil and the market to absorb it.

"If the company got its oil somewhere else, what would Iran do?" he asks.

Extremists now in control of the Iranian government may nevertheless carry out their announced plans, even if they kill the goose that lays the golden eggs. In that case Iran's oil will be lost to Europe. But, Follis says, this 700,000 barrels a day could be made up out of present world production.

There is an oil cushion now, he says, and it could be enlarged. The real problem would be refining the supply, he explains, because the refineries are in the wrong places and transportation would be troublesome. But he thinks it could be met.

Of course, nationalization in Iran might lead to nationalization in other Arab countries. But the problem may be solvable because Iran, which created it, cannot afford not to solve it.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Jan. 8, 1903. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

FALLSINGTON—The 103rd annual meeting of the Fallsington Library Company was held on Saturday afternoon and the following officers were re-elected: Directors, Miss Mary L. Gillingham, Mrs. Tacie Gillingham, William H. Moon, Edward C. Williamson, Henry W. Comfort; president, William H. Moon; secretary, Mrs. Tacie Gillingham; treasurer, David Satterthwaite, Sr.; librarian, Miss Eliza Hance.

FALLSINGTON—A teachers institute will be held here on Friday and Saturday the 16th and 17th inst., and Principal Neagle and his staff of teachers are busy preparing for the event, which will be the first held here for years. Among those expected to attend are G. M. Phillips, Ph. D., of the West Chester State Normal School; Supt. A. S. Martin, Doylestown; principal, Arthur Phillips, of Doylestown; Supt. William Wyncoop, of Newtown; principals J. S. Hoffman, Newtown, Charles T. Windle, Southampton, and A. E. Batt, Edgewood. In the evenings entertainments will be given, consisting one night of a mock court trial.

TULLYTOWN—Mrs. Sarah Carter, one of our older residents, celebrated New Year's Day by taking a trolley ride for the first time in her life. She was assisted on and off the car at this end of the ride by a merry party of gallants. We hope she will be able to take many more New Year's rides to Bristol.

HULMEVILLE—The annual meeting of the Hulmeville Horse Company was held on New Year's Day in the town hall. The only losses sustained by the company last year were a horse belonging to George Ebert, and a set of harness belonging to John H. Vansant, Edgington. All the former officers were re-elected, as follows: President, H. B. Webster; secretary and treasurer, Elisha C. Prael; directors, James T. Vansant, Sr., Alfred Bowen, Walter Leedom, Jacob Bowman, Edward Muller and David Reed. After the business meeting was over the members of the company proceeded to Hibbs' Hall where they partook of a bountiful New Year's dinner prepared by the Ladies Aid of the M. E. Church.

Goodwill Firemen Dedicate New Fire Station

volunteers were welcomed back with open arms, and since then the companies have been building. I only wish I could say the same for the borough. Instead of building our water and sewage plants were permitted to deteriorate and today we are faced with the highest costs in history of rebuilding the water plant and sewage treatment plant.

In closing, Mr. Smoyer said: "The borough is now making progress and it will not be too much longer before we will have better water and better sewage conditions. The borough is making real progress and I am sure you and I will be proud to say 'I live in Bristol.' Bristol is the finest borough in the United States and let's keep it that way. I wish to congratulate the Goodwill Fire Company for building this fine station for the use of the community."

Robert Graham, Bucks County Fire Marshal, was the next speaker. He said: "I am very proud to take part in the dedication of this fine new fire station. It is one of the marked the passing of 90 years in the life of Joseph Swartzlander, the oldest gentleman in this town. Mr. Swartzlander is a wonderfully preserved man, and has a memory that for time and accuracy is surpassed by none in this locality.

At a meeting of the Sunday School Board of the M. E. Sunday School, held on last Sunday afternoon, the old officers were re-elected to serve for another year. Their names are as follows: Superintendent, John K. Young; assistant superintendent, S. I. Whitaker; secretary, D. O. Taylor; assistant secretary, W. F. Hall; treasurer, H. G. Young; librarian, H. S. Rue; assistant librarians, William Allen, George Vanzant, H. H. H. Poole, George Callahan, H. G. Young, James Brooks, Doron Green; chorist, Miss Deborah Douglass; organist, Miss Laura King; assistant organist, Miss Mary York.

Edward Y. Himmelwright has sold his Bristol milk route to Benjamin Groff. As soon as Mr. Himmelwright settles up his business affairs he proposes going to California to make his home.

The Corona Kid Company has purchased from A. M. Knight 20 acres of land adjoining their present tract on the north side of Adam's Hollow creek. A short time ago the company purchased five acres on the south side. The company's property at the extensive works now embrace about 50 acres of ground. The company's growth has been most sensational. Building after building has been erected until now the factory is one of the largest in Bristol.

But little coal is coming to Bristol and the contents of the few cars that spasmodically arrive are quickly gobbled up by customers whose names have been on the "waiting lists" at the local dealers. An attempt has been made by the dealers to keep the price down to $7.50 for 2000 pounds but inability to get coal through the regular channels has forced the dealers to pay advanced rates to individual operators, and in such case much of the coal that is sold here is disposed of at $10.00 per ton. There appears to be no relief in sight.

biggest in the lower end of the county. Community spirit runs high in Bucks County and this building shows how it is here in the Third Ward. The volunteer firemen do not only fight fires and help out in the time of distress, but also take an interest in the youth of the community. The firemen see the need for a place for the youth of the community to go and that is why most of the new fire stations are built with large halls.

"The volunteer firemen are a good group of men. They all take an active part in the community and most of them put in a lot of hours and work for your benefit. They need your help to keep up the work they are doing as new equipment is needed, and the only way they have of getting it is with your support."

In closing, Mr. Graham said: "I know that this community is interested in the firemen, because if you were not you would not be here today. The flag the company received today is the flag of our great country and long may it wave over this fire station."

A telegram was received from Engine Co., No. 1, Sayreville, N. J., wishing the best of luck to Bristol Fire Company, No. 3. A floral piece was sent as a gift.

Mr. Harris again addressing the gathering said he wanted to present one without which a fire company ceremony would not be complete. "He is a man who has had a lot to do with all the fire companies in Bucks County for a good many years. He is William L. Stackhouse, Assistant Bucks County Detective, and former Bucks County Fire Marshal."

Mr. Stackhouse in his talk spoke as follows: "My whole hobby and pleasure is to be with firemen and in the doing with firemen. The outlying districts have for many years not had the best of fire protection and many times called upon the firemen of Bristol for help. They always gave when needed and Bristol firemen are known throughout the county."

"The Goodwill Company has built a beautiful building which is well built and fireproof. They have built for the future and a lot of young men will be needed to take an active part in the company, so that it will always hold a high place in the community. In Bucks County we have 56 fire companies and over 7000 volunteers with the best equipment possible to have. With the new stations built in the last two years and the ones now underway it means an investment of over a half million dollars in new buildings by the firemen. This is in keeping with the growth of this end of the county."

In closing, Mr. Stackhouse said: "I wish the citizens and members of this company the greatest of success in the future as they have enjoyed in the past."

Introductions were as follows: Members of Borough Council, Borough Fire Chief, Clifford Hagerman; Horace Saxton, Goodwill Fire Chief; Borough Engineer, Livingston Joyce; and Anthony Flatch, President of the Goodwill Fire Company, No. 3.

Mr. Flatch said: "On behalf of the Goodwill Fire Company I wish to thank the Robert W. Bracken Post, American Legion, and the Chester W. Terchon Post, V. F. W., and their cadet corps, for the part they have played in today's ceremonies. I also wish to thank the building committee and the dedication committee and all others who helped to make this great day possible."

The benediction was given by the Rev. Harold C. Koch, of the Methodist Church, Bristol. "Before giving the benediction, the Rev. Koch said: 'I wish to extend my congratulations to the fire company for the fine building they have erected and it is an asset to the community.'"

In closing the program, Mr. Harris said: "I wish to thank everyone who helped make a success of the dedication and for the work they have done. The entire building is open for inspection and there will be refreshments in the engine room."

Borough council members attended and were seated on the platform.

American people than converting foreign races to our point of view.

The State Department paper was one in which Uncle Sam "wrote off" Formosa, just as his diplomats had "written off" the Chinese Nationalist Government, a year or so earlier—the same Chinese government which had been our loyal ally during the Second World War, the same one to which we had promised the "four freedoms" and autonomy in the so-called "Atlantic Charter," the same one we had considered one of the Big Four for purposes of the War and of the United Nations organization.

Secretly, without telling the American people—they learn about it now under protest—the pro-Communist element in the State Department "kissed off" this bastion of the Pacific. Once that document was approved by President Truman, as it now appears, it was a standing invitation to Stalin to send troops in to occupy Formosa, and a promise on our part not to resist.

When and if that had occurred, the Truman-Acheson explanation would have been precisely what it has been over and again in parallel cases—the American people would have been told, not that this was part of the incredibly great betrayal which has been going ever since before Yalta, but that this was another of those amazing instances of Russian aggression and imperialism, and that we would most certainly protest against it—except that to do so might start World War III.

The nastiest, dirtiest, most astounding part of the state paper now revealed is the part which explains in minute detail how the State Department proposed to go about misleading and deceiving the American people on the importance of Formosa and the manner in which it was passing into Russia's hands.

It's all there—you can read it for yourself. The paper contains a complete blueprint of how to deceive you and the rest of the citizens of this so-called "republic," this supposed country of self-government and popular sovereignty—now become a semi-dictatorship.

The details are so astounding that no fiction writer would dare invent them—brazen, demagogic, completely traitorous from the point of view of anyone who believes that ours is and ought to remain government "of, by and for the people."

The instructions are there on how to belittle and confuse the critics, together with a list of the so-called "facts" to be presented—meaning the items of false and misleading propaganda which all State Department agents and fellow-travellers were to agree upon and emphasize.

To take a single example of the fraud, this amazing document contains instructions how to convince the American people that Formosa is and has always been considered to be part of China, although, as the note brings out, it has been "ruled by the Japanese (as Taiwan) for fifty years." On this point, the note goes further, and for the obvious purpose of trying to keep this Japanese control (which was many, many years longer than that over Manchuria, although that country was not restored to China, but was turned over to Russia by this same State Department of ours, as a result of promises at Yalta) in the background and concealing it from the American public's attention, the document tells writers and speakers to refer to the island, not in its then accepted Japanese name of Taiwan, but in the older Chinese name of Formosa.

This country is full of persons who have been deceived by the Truman-Marshall-Acheson propaganda concerning foreign affairs. If they want to see how this has been accomplished, and want to pick out the pro-Communist influences which have been at work at Washington, the newly revealed document perfectly illustrates the technique and exposes the objectives.

Fifth Ward Sporting Club Dedicates New Building structure with Ralph Palladino as master of ceremonies.

A crowd of several hundred attended these ceremonies. Palladino told the audience of the fine work of the members of the Fifth Ward Sporting Club. He thanked the people for their help and stated: "This fine building is the result."

The invocation was by Rabbi Aaron Moscovitz, of the Bristol Jewish Center. The prayer to the flag was by the Rev. Dr. Andrew Solia, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Our Saviour, and the blessing of the cornerstone, building and plaque was by the Rev. Fr. Peter Pinci, rector of St. Ann's R. C. Church.

Burgess I. Johnston Hetherington welcomed the Fifth Ward organization to the fraternal associations of the borough, and stated that in his opinion the club is the greatest organization of the borough, founded on the principles of tolerance and community spirit.

He equalled the tolerance of Fifth Ward Sporting Club to the veterans' organizations of the borough and stated that with its athletic connections, the group can be of the greatest service to Bristol.

Burgess Hetherington recalled that many members of the club were serving with the Legion Cadet Corps when the idea of a club-house was first conceived. "The boys carried their dreams throughout the battlefields of Europe and Asia in World War II, but when the war was over they came back with renewed spirit to see their dreams become a reality."

"The one thing I like is that there is no limit to their membership. I know that the club will be good for the Fifth Ward and for all of Bristol, and I hope that it is an example that all wards will follow. May you live long and prosper."

The flag-raising was done by Peter Mancini, president of the organization. The presentation of the colors was by Louis Sabatini, of the American Legion Cadet Corps, with Marion Petro and Marie Marino as color bearers. There were selections by the Legion and the Chester W. Terchon Post Cadet Corps.

Mancini told the gathering that the completion of the building was the greatest thing that has ever happened in his life. He thanked all for their help and co-operation and hoped that the building will be a great asset to the community, especially the youngsters.

Participating in the cornerstone laying were: Mancini, John DaGrosa, the Rev. Pinci, and Carlo Rago, the latter a stone mason.

DaGrosa, known as the "Ox" since his athletic days, gave the principal address. DaGrosa is now a member of the Pennsylvania State Boxing Commission and well known for his football coaching ability and as an author of several books on football. At the present time he is also conducting a TV program to teach youngsters the art of boxing.

DaGrosa told of the forming of the club in December, 1937, when a teen-age group met and discussed sports and various other American activities.

"The result of that meeting has been accomplished today with the dedication of this beautiful building," said DaGrosa. "These boys served their country and then came back to build this structure for their membership regardless of race, color or creed."

"This building is a living memory for four of the club's members who sat at a meeting in a vacant shoe-maker repair shop, but who paid the supreme sacrifice in the war, and it also stands in reverence to those who served their country."

DaGrosa said he felt especially proud, for most of the members of the organization were of Italian extraction and who already proved they are Americans.

"And we can feel proud of that fact—for today, show me an American painting and I will show you Italian brushes; show me American sculpture and I will show you Italian chisels; show me American music and I will show you Italian songs; show me American justice and I will show you Italian law; show me American statesmanship and I will show you Italian birth; show me American history and I will show you Italian explorers; show me American discoveries and I will show you Italian names; show me American sports and I will show you Italian names; show me American battlefields and I will show you Italian graves."

With this DaGrosa requested that all stand in silence in memory of the four departed members. Taps were sounded by John Antonelli, of the Bracken Post, American Legion, Cadets; and Samuel Fenton, of the Terchon Post, V. F. W. Cadets.

The unveiling of the plaque was by Peter Mancini. Surrounding the plaque were: Armand Gerome, Mrs. Jean Capucci, Mr. and Mrs. Dominick DiSabato, and Mr. Mario Venturino. The four members who paid the Supreme Sacrifice in World War II were: Quindio Gerome, Pasquale Capucci, Michael DiSabato and Alfred Venturino.

The banquet was held in the auditorium of the building. The tables were bedecked with flowers and candles. The honored and invited male guests were presented with carnations, and Silvio Clotti provided accordion music during the dinner. On the stage of the auditorium were displayed the trophies won by the youths of the fifth ward during the recent celebration of Youth Week.

There were several presentations after the dinner. Peter Mancini, president of the organization, was given a signet ring by the membership for his untiring leadership. DaGrosa was presented with a plaque, and the Fifth Ward organization was given monetary gifts by Gaetano Greco, Anthony Niccoli, Luigi Mancini, Nicholas Fandozzi on behalf of the Sons of Italy organization, Mrs. Frances Greco on behalf of the Daughters of Italy.

The Chester W. Terchon Post presented an American flag to the association, as did the Robert W. Bracken Post, American Legion. These presentations were made by Henry Kornstet, commander of the V. F. W. organization, and Arthur Straccio, commander of the cadet corps of the Legion. The flags were received on behalf of the organization by Mancini.

The Fifth Ward Sporting Club acknowledged gifts of flowers from Mrs. Anthony Russo, of Florida; St. Ann's A. A.; and Living's Flower Shop; and thanked Mrs. Josephine DiLorenzo for her help in arranging the setting of the banquet.

Anthony Messina, chairman of the banquet committee, presented Palladino as master of ceremonies following the dinner. Palladino thanked all who helped to make the day's celebration a success.

There was a talk by Burgess Hetherington, who stated that he admired the "guts" of the young men who are responsible for the club-house. He said: "We are celebrating two freedoms this evening—the freedom of assemblage and speech. It is only in a nation like ours that men of all races and creeds come together to enjoy a dinner like this. We are the last bulwark of freedom. Let's not lose it. Let's not lose faith. Flanders Field, Guam, and other possessions are filled with the graves of men who fought for it."

"As Burgess of Bristol, and we, as citizens, owe the Fifth Ward Sporting Club a vote of thanks for a job well done."

Mancini thanked the various committees for their work in the completion of the building and also the invited guests who contributed their workmanship.

Mrs. Fannie Galzerano, president of the Fifth Ward Ladies' Auxiliary, told the members that the auxiliary is behind the organization ready to help at any time on all matters, no matter how little.

Anthony Niccoli, Justice of Peace of Bristol, told of how he watched the growth of the organization. He advised the group that the hardest work is yet to come, that of keeping the organization together and unity. It stated that organizations like this help to combat juvenile delinquency and hoped for more of them in the borough.

DaGrosa, the main speaker, congratulated what he called the task force in the completion of the job, and to exemplify his remarks of the afternoon said: "Show me a corner-stone, and I will show you an Italian trowel."

Continuing the speaker said: "We need clubs like this in America. Clubs where men, regardless of race or creed, can compete with one another."

DaGrosa advised the membership to give everything they have in all their undertakings. "You gave everything here and a dream became a reality."

He told the gathering that their forefathers did not have the opportunities that they have today. All they did was work, with no sports involved.

In his concluding remarks, DaGrosa said: "Everybody wants to win. You have been successful here and everybody will want to belong. You can't fail. They all love a winner but remember, you can't win them all. The playing fields of America teaches boys how to win and lose. Give all in the fight and get all you can out of it and remember, you get out only what you put in."

"Keep up your faith in God, yourselves and your fellow-man." You may get someone who may disagree but you men that carry the ball can level off the "loud-mouth guys."

"We in America must try to keep the perpetual peace on the face of the earth. We must do the job that those four members gave their lives to do. We must show that they did not die in vain. Sports clubs are the greatest medium of bringing together boys and girls. This building is a true symbol of this philosophy."

Other honored guests were: Linford J. Jones, Thomas Juno, Louis Galzerano, Anthony Niccoli.

The invocation was by Rev. Solia and the closing prayer by Rabbi Moskovitz.

The invited guests list included: Blair Capriotti, Anthony Fusco, Anthony Jardine, Fred Leyden, Joseph Ciarella, Benjamin Broadbridge, Samuel Clamper, John Claffaro, Julio Zanni, Louis Zanni, Claudia Zanni, Philip Paolella, Samuel Faruggio, Joseph Liberatore, Joseph Gilardi, Anthony Flatch, Nicholas Fandozzi, Anthony Natale, Philip LaSalle, Frank Antonini, Joseph Race, Joseph Haines, Nicholas Pascale, Joseph Sacchi, Joseph Quanta, Philip Orzi, Carlo Rago, Camelo Capucci, Emidio Constantino, Orlando Carmosina, Frank Mangrioli, Joseph Plebant, Angelo Raciotti, L. Officers of the club are: President, Peter Mancini; vice-president, Frank Russo; secretary, James Orzi; treasurer, Anthony Florito; trustees, Anthony Messina, Louis Galzerano, and Claude Camillucci.

The banquet committee consisted of: Anthony Messina, Angelo Cordisco, Andrew Cordisco, Ralph Palladino, Renzo Girotti, Frank Licause, Albert Mancini, Nino Mazzanti, Mrs. Helen Paolella, Mrs. Dorothy Pagliano, Mrs. Angelina Livingst, Mrs. Alice Florito, and Mrs. Carolyn Boccia.

The catered menu consisted of: fresh fruit cocktail, snapper soup, dinner rolls and butter, roast young turkey with English filling and white potato croquette, cranberry sauce, baby lima beans, hearts of celery, green olives, fancy cakes, harlequin ice cream, cream mints, and coffee.

Twin Sister is Attendant At Joan Edleman's Wedding

EDDINGTON, June 4—The altar in Eddington Presbyterian Church, here, was decked with pink gladioli and carnations on Saturday at 3.30 when two graduates of Bensalem township high school were united in matrimony. They are Miss Joan M. Edleman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edleman, Andalusia, and Mr. John B. Twining, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Twining, Trevoze. The Rev. Mr. May officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was costumed in imported white silk and Chantilly lace. A strapless gown of white nylon tulle and silk taffeta was worn beneath a redingote of lace, which featured a Peter Pan collar, fitted bodice, which was surrounded by a peltum; short puffed sleeves and long skirt, entrain. Pointed, detachable sleeves of lace reached to the elbows. A halo of white shattered carnations was attached to a long veil of tulle. White slippers were worn and she carried a cascade of staphanotis, carnations and white orchid.

A twin sister of the bride, Mrs. Harry Shapcott, Eddington, matron of honor, wore an identically styled gown as that of the bride. The redingote was worn over a strapless gown of pink tulle and taffeta. Pink shattered carnations composed the halo, while the blossoms in the cascade were of matching staphanotis and carnations. White slippers were worn. There were five bridesmaids attired in embroidered pink organza fashioned with Peter Pan collars, fitted bodices, short puffed sleeves, gathered waistlines with wide sashes of taffeta forming bows in back, long, full skirts with scalloped borders at the base. Half halos of pink shattered carnations with streamers in back, lace pink mitts and white slippers were worn. Cascades of pink carnations and green ivy were carried. The five attendants were: Miss Faye Farren, Rockledge, a cousin of the bride, as junior bridesmaid; Mrs. John Brucks, Cornwells Heights; Mrs. Bernard Reif, Eddington; Mrs. Roy Russell, Trevoze; Mrs. Clayton Durham, Riverside, N. J.

Mr. Roy Russell, Trevoze, served as best man. The ushers were: Pfc. Joseph Edleman, Biloxi, Miss., a brother of the bride; Messrs. Donald Roberts, Trevoze, a cousin of the bridegroom; Robert Edleman, Andalusia, a brother of the bride; and Walter Cole, Trevoze. Mrs. Gertrude Kirk, Andalusia, rendered organ selections. Mr. Ralph Barclay, Eddington, sang "O Promise Me," "I Love You Truly," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Today's Quiet Moment

By Rabbi Aron Moskovits

Heavenly Father, when we pray we give expression that we need Thy aid — we call upon Thee to help us, when we are physically or spiritually in want of Thy divine protection. We know O Father that everything we daily receive cometh from Thee. No one should take for granted or accept Thy gifts without grateful acknowledgment.

May we understand the reality of Thy presence and feel the purity and exaltation that cometh from being near to Thee. For such faith and trust we beseech Thee. Amen.

Immediate families was served at Tally-Ho Inn, Bensalem township. In the evening, a reception took place at the residence of the bride's parents with 200 attending.

The choice of Mrs. Edleman, mother of the bride, was a dress of navy blue crepe with lace sleeves and yoke, matching hat and accessories. Mrs. Twining, mother of the bridegroom, selected aquatone crepe with hat of navy blue and matching accessories. Both wore orchid corsages. For her trip to the New England states and parts of Canada, the former Miss Edleman chose a suit of beige gabardine, white eyelet blouse, small hat of navy velvet, matching handbag and slippers, white gloves. She wore the orchid from the bridal bouquet.

To the junior bridesmaid, the bride presented a pearl necklace. The matron of honor received a blue stone brooch, and the four bridesmaids received sterling silver bracelets. The best man received from Mr. Twining a set of cuff links. Fountain pens were presented to the ushers. The gift of the bridegroom to his bride was a pearl necklace. Mrs. Twining presented her husband with a silk robe and matching slippers.

Mrs. Twining is employed by the Corn Exchange National Bank, Philadelphia. Mr. Twining is employed by Standard Pressed Steel Co., Hatboro. The newlyweds will reside on Lowell avenue, Andalusia.

It was on Jan. 21st, 1771, that Carpenter's hall, Philadelphia, was first occupied.

A new kind

helps keep

America strong

The American Indians relayed messages with smoke signals. Then the Pony Express galloped mail from point to point. Today, tall towers can flash Long Distance calls across country by radio waves. But the relay principle is the same.

Radio relay antenna towers are generally on high ground about 30 miles apart. Each tower picks up microwaves from its neighbor, focuses them like a searchlight, and beams them accurately at the next tower. And hundreds of Long Distance conversations can ride the beam side by side.

Radio relay supplements wire lines, coaxial cables and other cables. It greatly expands Long Distance facilities. And it is especially valuable right now when America's telephones are busy around the clock on history's biggest job of defense.

Goes On Trial For Fatal Accident

Johnston died at Nazareth Hospital from multiple injuries.

Dr. John V. Allen, Nazareth Hospital resident physician, testified that Johnston died soon after being admitted to the accident ward, although hospital attendants made a desperate effort to save his life.

Jacob Schmidt, Jr., construction engineer, who was placing Christmas wreaths on graves in the Bristol Cemetery, heard the noise made by the tires of the defendant's car, and helped carry the victim into the house. "I saw something flying through the air, but had no idea it was a human being," said Schmidt.

His brother, Horace C. Schmidt, who was also working in the cemetery, didn't see the impact, but heard the squealing tires.

Chief Joseph O. Seader, of Bristol Township Police, who investigated the accident, testified the defendant had an alcohol odor on his breath, but that Dr. Romano, who examined him, did not pronounce him unfit to drive his car. "The defendant told me that Mr. Johnston 'froze' when he heard my horn blow. He admitted he had several beers," stated Seader.

When pictures were introduced, showing the scene of the accident, with Chief Seader standing on the road and pointing to the spot, J. Louis Rubin, attorney for the defendant, objected.

Judge Davis sustained his objection, and the figure of Chief Seader and another pedestrian were cut out of the photographs, offered by the Commonwealth, leaving gaping holes in them.

The photographs were mutilated, Judge Davis ruled, because they did not show the scene as it actually was at the time of the accident.

William L. Johnston, Croydon, testified his father was in good health, took walks daily and had all his faculties. "I asked the defendant at the Bristol police station what happened and he answered 'I don't know,'" said the son of the victim.

The Monroe county judge excused the jury until tomorrow, when the trial will be resumed.
